The Columbians last night won three straight games from the Government Printing Office team in the National Capital Ducky League. The last two contests resulted in easy victories for the first mentioned five. The first was a tie, though, and the winners were compelled to take the roll-off in that before making their sweep complete. The Columbians got a set of 1,635, their last two games standing out particularly—562 and 569. Chapin's count of 161 was the main factor in obtaining the second score, 562, but in the third every man rolled well and consistently. Baum was the only member of the winning club to get more than 100 pins in each of his games.

Notwithstanding that his team lost two games to the Phi Mu Sigma unit in the Arcade League, Staub of the Washington Railway five was the best player of the match. Staub knocked down 112, 110 and 105 of the maples. The General Baking Company took the measure of The Star in the Commercial League, winning two of the three contests. Hutchinson and Duckett were responsible for their team's victory, each rolling in good form. Duckett got marks of 101, 100 and 125, and Hutchinson scored 113, 107 and 110.

Jacobsen Rolls 347 Set.
Jacobsen rolled a set of 347 for War in the Departmental League. His count in the opening contest was 113. In the second he fell to 104, but jumped to 130 in the final. The Washington Loan and Trust Company team won a close match from the District National Bank in the Bankers' League. There was an even split in the first two and in the third the W. L. & T. was the victor by a margin of two pins, the score being 118 to 100. The good rolling of Prim, Wood and Beall in that last set gave the Washington aggregation the needed score.

TECH AND EASTERN
ELEVENS TO PLAYManual Trainers Tomorrow
Should Easily Win Second Game of School Series.

TIGERS MEET DARTMOUTH

BY H. C. BYRD.

Technical High should not have much difficulty tomorrow in winning from Eastern in the second game of the high school football series. The Manual Trainers will outweigh the Light Blue and White eleven by a big margin, are faster and much more experienced. The game will be played at American League Park and will begin at 3:15 p.m.

Only one cog will be missing in Tech's machine. Dave Pfeiffer, one of the most capable of the backs, is unable to play because of illness. He is not expected to be out of the game for more than two or three days and should be in shape to go into the more important struggles with Business and Central. Pfeiffer's absence tomorrow should not endanger Tech's chances of victory to any great extent. The Manual Trainers probably are strong enough to win from the light Eastern eleven with one or two more regulars out of the play.

Tech, like Central, was extremely fortunate in having its first game scheduled with a much lighter opponent. It thus has had a chance to develop along rational lines and has not been compelled to rush its practice, with the attendant risk of reaching top form before its most crucial struggles. Had Tech been scheduled to meet Central in the opening game, the lighter and less experienced elevens might have had a better chance to accomplish more because of the long time they would have been given in which to develop.

Technical fails to win easily from Eastern the result will be quite a surprise. Judged by what the two elevens have accomplished so far in their practice battles, the Manual Trainers are much the superiors of the Capitol Hill boys. Eastern has turned out some plucky, hard fighting teams in recent years, notwithstanding the light material, and it may give Tech more of a struggle than is looked for. McCaffrey, who is in charge of the Eastern squad, will get the best out of his men, as he has given proof of his capabilities along that line in past seasons. If Eastern has the material out of which a team can be developed to give Tech a real struggle, it will show at its best under McCaffrey's direction. It is doubtful, though, if the physique of the youngsters at Eastern will be tested enough to warrant the expectation of anything more than a fair showing, even with the most capable of coaching.

The victory of the Georgetown team over Dartmouth last week detracts somewhat from the importance of the struggle in which Dartmouth and Princeton are to engage Saturday at Princeton. Had Dartmouth won from the Blue and Gray it would have gone to Princeton to take part in the most important contest of the week, one in which it would have battled with some chance of winning recognition for eastern football supremacy. However, since the defeat by Georgetown, Dartmouth will not be conceded anything like an even chance to win from the Tigers. Of course, everybody is familiar with the fact that Dartmouth was holding back at the start of the contest with Georgetown, but even after it put the best men it had in the game it was not able to score. With an eleven such as that which wears the Orange and Black, Dartmouth, after its failure to win from Georgetown, cannot be considered as strong as Princeton. There is, of course, the possibility ity that the Green will recuperate and play a whale of a game against the Tigers, but it is not likely that it will win.

Dartmouth won the first time from Princeton in 1905, the score being 6 to 0. The Tigers turned the tables the following year and got the long end of a 42-to-0 count. Dartmouth won again in 1908 by 10 to 6 and in 1913 by 6 to 0. With the exception of the 6-to-6 tie in 1909, Princeton has been the victor in their years. In 1914 the Tigers barely won, though the result being 18 to 12, but last season they completely swamped the New Englanders after the latter had been conceded practically an even chance for victory. This week Dartmouth again would have gone to Princeton on practically the same footing with the Tigers had it not been for the unexpected turn of things a few days ago, when Georgetown proved to be the first stumbling block in the way of championship aspirations.

Much credit has been given the Western High eleven for the fight it made against the heavier Central team Tuesday, and particularly has Coach Morse come in for favorable commendation. Morse put on the field a better eleven than anybody expected, notwithstanding the lightness and inexperience of the boys in his line-up. His men were well coached as individuals and as a team. If anybody else could have gotten more out of the players he would have proved himself something of a marvel in handling a foot ball squad.

Edgar Tippett, who distinguished himself last year as a member of the University of Virginia, is kicking a field goal in the last two minutes of play and winning thereby from the University of Georgia, is banked upon to play quarterback regularly for Johns Hopkins University. Tippett is not a particular star in carrying the ball, but is a splendid punter and drop kicker. He also runs a team well, directing his plays much better than the ordinary quarterback.

DEFEAT FOR TALCOTT

Eliminated in First Match
Round for Siamese Cup.

TUCKERMAN HARD PUSHED

The first round of play in the annual competition for the Siamese cup at the Chevy Chase Club yesterday afternoon found one of the two-time winners eliminated. E. M. Talcott, who had annexed the trophy twice before, was defeated by H. R. Dulany, Jr., by 2-1. Two extra-hole contests featured the first round. Walter R. Tuckerman, who also has two legs on the trophy, was forced to go twenty-two holes to compass the defeat of J. J. Hamilton. Tuckerman's handicap is 4, while that of Hamilton is 18. When the contestants finished all square at the eighteenth hole Tuckerman had to give his opponent a stroke every other hole, thus making at least two extra holes necessary to a decision. Hamilton won the first hole with his stroke, but Tuckerman annexed the second. The third was halved and Tuckerman won the short fourth to win the match.

J. Donald Cassels defeated Hughes Oliphant in another twenty-two hole battle. In this case, after halving the first two holes, Cassels won both the twenty-first and twenty-second to win the match 2 up. Samuel Dalsell produced the fastest brand of golf when in his defeat of John S. Larcombe, Jr., he was out in 42 and back in 36, to win by 5-3, owing to his great golf on the last nine holes. He was but 1 up at the turn. One of the finest matches of the year is promised this afternoon when Dalsell and Tuckerman meet in the second round.

Neither J. W. Childress or D. D. Le

Bretton showed up to play yesterday afternoon and it was the judgment of the committee that both should be defaulted, which permits Julian T. Bishop to enter the third round without having played a match.

Clapp Shows Good Form.
J. H. Clapp was going strong to beat C. G. Treat by 3-2. Clapp was around in 83 despite the strong wind which swept the course. He ended the match when he had a 3 on the sixteenth hole, dead into the wind. The summaries:

First round.—T. A. Claytor defeated R. Kauffmann, 3-1; A. H. Duval defeated H. B. Davidson by default; T. N. McAbby defeated Robert Stead, 7-6; D. Cassels defeated Hughes Oliphant, 1 up in 22 holes; J. A. McIlhenny defeated I. T. Mann by default; John H. Clapp defeated C. G. Treat, 2-3; W. H. Mason defeated H. M. Southgate, 5-3; J. H. de Sibour defeated B. S. Minor, 4-3; Walter R. Tuckerman defeated J. J. Hamilton, 1 up in 22 holes; Samuel Dalsell defeated John S. Larcombe, Jr., 5-3; Julian T. Bishop defeated C. L. Marlett by default; J. W. Childress and D. D. Le Bretton, double default; H. R. Dulany, Jr., defeated E. M. Talcott, 2-1; R. W. Baker defeated Robert Stead, Jr., 5-3; M. E. Gates defeated E. B. Babbitt by default; G. T. Dunlop defeated H. C. Reisinger, 2-1.

Jack Burgess had a great start for the score yesterday afternoon. He holed a masher shot for a 2 on the first hole, then followed it up by nearly holing a fine cleek shot for a 2 on the second hole. He got his 3 easily enough. There was not time to play even the full first nine holes, and the players eliminated the fourth and fifth.

MISS LOUNSBERY WINS.

Finishes Women's Metropolitan Golf Play With Lowest Net Score.

NEW YORK, October 26.—Miss Beatrice Lounsbury of Bedford, who won the recent three-day tournament at the Knollwood Country Club, added to her prestige yesterday when she carried off the net score prize in the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association tion one-day tournament over the links of the Richmond County Country Club. Twenty-eight devotees of the golf course participated in the tournament. Miss Lounsbury covered the course in 102, and a handicap of 9 brought her mark down to 94, the lowest of the afternoon.

Some spirited competition was afforded in the play for the best low gross prize, which was won by Mrs. S. Hezog of Fairview Country Club.

Mrs. Herzog turned in a card of 102 for the course, which was one better than that of Mrs. L. C. Stockton, the Summerville golfer. Three contestants tied for the honors in a putting competition, each having a 25. They were Mrs. J. G. Clark, Richmond County Country Club; Mrs. A. MacDonald, Plainfield Country Club, and Mrs. C. S. Waterhouse, Ardley Club.
